4. For a bright man like Dr. Kurien, there was nothing very challenging or interesting in the Government job. He wanted to do something which would make a difference to people's lives and create history. Who was Dr. Kurien? What did he do to change people's lives?
5. Read the passage and answer the following questions:

The Amul Co-operative is based on a common goal or aim which the members of the cooperative cannot achieve as individuals. In the co-operative some of the profits made by the organisation are shared equally by the members. The co-operative makes profits because its members get a better price for their product than they would get if they were not members. They get a better price as members of the co-operative because they agree not to sell to middlemen and sell directly to the consumers. They co-operate and remain united.

- Who started Amul Co-operative?
- What was the main objective of the cooperative?
- How do Amul Cooperatives make profits?

6. Read the passage and answer the following questions:

He was able to bring the poor farmers together to form a co-operative. He set up the largest dairy in India. He improved the lives of the cattle farmers and ensured that all his countrymen could now get plenty of good quality milk, butter, cheese, and curds.

- Who is he mentioned in the above lines?
- What was his contribution towards his country men?
- How did he revolutionise the milk production process?
