

National Institute of Open Schooling
Senior Secondary
Lesson 23 – Man and Environment interaction
Worksheet-23

1. “The relationship of man and environment is, however, bi-directional”. Comment upon the given statement.
2. Explain at least three situations from your daily life where the effects of the environment are clearly visible on behaviour.
3. Elucidate upon the benefits of integrating the study of psychology with environmental studies, also known as Environmental Psychology.
4. Describe the five major components of human-environment interaction.
5. Describe the concept of life space using any one real life situation as an example.
6. Prepare a list of the natural calamities and man-made disasters that resulted in long-term behavioural changes in human civilization.
7. Science and technology have advanced a great deal in the past two decades. But there is a rise in man-made stressors. Describe these man-made stressors in detail.
8. Suggest at least three ways through which the damaging effect of human actions can be reduced on the environment.
9. Discuss the condition of water, air and waste material management in your surroundings. In your view, can there be some better ways to deal with them? Explain.